CHARGES YOUTH WITH KILLING TWO

"HE'S A LIAR," SAYS HAYES, 19, OF RAYMOND SCHNEIDER.

"CONFESSION" IS FAULTY

Youth Says He and Hall Were Seeking Bahmer Girl and Stepfather, and that Hayes Opened Fire on Couple in Dark.

New Brunswick, N. J.—Clifford Hayes, a youth of 19, held incommunicado in the Somerset county jail at Somerville on a warrant charging him with the first degree murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills or September 14.

But if the authorities who caused his arrest have any evidence which would show a logical motive for his alleged act they have carefully withheld it.

The explanation of Raymond Schneider, 22, whose accusation caused Hayes' arrest, was that it was a case of mistaken identity. Hayes, he said, thought he was shooting 15-year-old Pearl Bahmer and her step-father, Nicholas Bahmer.

But the only motive he advanced for the reckless crime was a sort of guile on Hayes' part—a desire to right a supposed wrong done a friend—Schneider, who, although married, admits he is in love with Pearl.

Hayes' retort was that Schneider was a "damned liar." He admitted going with Schneider to the deserted Phillips farm, where the bodies were found, in search of Pearl and her step-father.

They heard shots and screams, he said and ran toward the crabapple tree whence the shots seemed to come, observing an automobile dash away as they ran.

Beneath the tree, he declared, they found the minister and the choir singer and, he added, Schneider bent down and stole the minister's watch.

This Schneider hotly denied during the all-night grilling to which both youths were subjected. Schneider, in turn, accused Hayes of having committed the theft.

One of the most glaring discrepancies in Schneider's story is his assertion that neither he nor Hayes touched the bodies, except for the flicking of the watch—of which he accuses Hayes.

It has been established by a belated autopsy that Mrs. Mills' throat was cut from ear to ear, and her head almost severed. Schneider could not explain this.

Neither could he explain how the bodies came to be laid out carefully, side by side, as if for burial.

His story does tally remarkably, however, with the first statement attributed to Mrs. Hall after the murders were discovered—that her theory of the double slaying was "mistaken identity." This statement later was repudiated by Miss Sally Peters, confidant of Mrs. Hall, who said the rector's widow could imagine no motive, except possibly that of robbery, for the murders.

A part of Schneider's story was corroborated by Pearl Bahmer.

On the night of September 14, she said, she was out with Schneider, remaining until about 9 o'clock. When she returned home, she continued, she found her stepfather on the porch, intoxicated, and consented to go with him while he attempted to "walk off" the effects of his drinking.
